Washington, D.C. Prayer Tours with Aglow U.S. Regional Prayer Teams in 2020: (TOP) JAN.12 MidAtlantic states & (BOTTOM) MAR. 8 Southwest states. All the above Aglow groups were referred to NPE by Alice Holland, Wash., D.C. area, top photo (JAN. 12) seated far right. These Aglow Teams have been coming to D.C. to pray with NPE since their Fall 2008 D.C. national conference when NPE helped take all 2000 delegates on D.C. Prayer Tours using 20 buses in caravan. They plan to continue sending regional prayer teams in 2020 and to purchase a permanent prayer house in D.C.! Since 2010 the NPE has taken a total of over 60 Regional Aglow Prayer Teams on D.C. Prayer Tours, an average of about six teams per year!

More D.C. Prayer Tours led by NPE Director Jeff Wright during the 1st 6 months of 2020:
(TOP) JAN. 11: friends of Eve Nunez--prospective congressional interns & staffers; (BOTTOM) MAR. 1: David Sattler (far left) & Marisela Sattler (far right) joined prayer group from Houston, TX led by Lora Allison (4th from right) just before David & Marisela brought the morning message & ministry at Victory World Outreach Church, the host church for the NPE in the DC area.

FEB. 24: friends of Apostle David Moses Musonda (2nd from left) & his son Israel Nehemiah Musonda (far right) on the occasion of Apostle Musonda's moving back to Zambia after decades of planting houses of prayer in Colorado, Idaho, Oklahoma & DC. Apostle Musonda was referred to Jeff Wright 5 years ago for help starting his DC prayer house and became a special friend, ministering several times at Victory World Outreach Church, the host church for the NPE in the DC area, as well as at several other ministries that Jeff supports in the DC area including Family Research Council, American Christian Trust, Jericho Prayer Movement, International Calvary Church and David's Tent 24/7 worship to Jesus on the National Mall.

TOP) MAR. 7: For the past 10 years Jeff Wright has joined the Jericho Prayer Movement (JPM) for which on the first Saturday morning of each month at 6am – 7am prayer teams of different ethnicities and different denominations from different sides of the DC area join together for an hour of outdoor prayer at 14 strategic mostly monumental locations in DC. In the past few years affiliated prayer meetings are starting in other cities across America and around the world. Jeff spent 9 years attending the Washington Monument location, but in December 2018 at the request of messianic rabbi Michael Rudolph Jeff helped start a new JPM altar location near the Israeli Embassy in DC! Here he is shown with Tim Mahoney (left) and David Sattler (right) who have been faithful to attend JPM with Jeff over the past year near the Israel Embassy across the street at the American Christian Trust, a bed and breakfast 24/7 prayer house. (BOTTOM) Each month the JPM ends with a follow-up breakfast, singing prayer leader report and closing circle prayer, usually at the International Calvary Church (ICC) in Springfield, VA pastored by Sharon Lee—for the last eight years this church has provided most of the leaders and participants at each of the 14 DC JPM locations, as well the free breakfast each month. ICC was started 20 years ago in the DC area as a church plant from the world-famous near 800,000-member Yoido Full Gospel Church of Seoul, Korea, which is known for its massive round-the-clock prayer ministry including “Prayer Mountain” near the border with North Korea. Jeff Wright visited there in 1987 and heard founding Pastor Paul Yonggi Cho ask for prayers for the peaceful reunification of the Korean peninsula under the banner of Jesus Christ, which is what NPE has prayed ever since.

JAN. 18: NPE Director Jeff Wright visited the AgExpo in West Monroe, LA where Evangelist Jeff Goss was working the booth for the Fellowship of Christian Farmers (FCF), looking for opportunity to lead high school students, especially Future Farmers of America in prayer to receive Jesus as their personal Lord & Savior. For decades Jeff Goss has worked as a security guard for Joyce Meyer Ministries (JMM) near St. Louis, MO along with his wife Julie who works for JMM as a Call Center Supervisor. Almost every weekend for years Jeff has also traveled to farm shows like this one above, and sometimes in Canada or Britain at the Olympics with Jews For Jesus and every September to the Navaho pow-wow in Arizona or for years at Mardi Gras in New Orleans and every Friday night for years leading a street ministry team in inner city St. Louis from Joyce Meyers' Dream Center. For almost 20 years Jeff Wright & the host church for NPE, Victory World Outreach Church, have provided a legal covering & financial accountability for Jeff Goss Ministries which covers Jeff Goss's weekend ministry described above. Jeff Goss is also shown on the next page (far left) in the bottom photo rear screen overhead video still shot showing the "Great Bend Prayer Tour" which was held in the year 2000 at which time Jeff Goss was assistant pastor at Faith Community Church in Great Bend, KS. Jeff Goss and Jeff Wright were both raised in this town of 20,000 people in the middle of Kansas named after a "Great Bend" in the nearby Arkansas River. Although they were a few years apart in school and so did not know each other growing up, they met in 1986 on a bus in Zimbabwe, Africa while both were attending a Kenneth Copeland Pastors' Tour in conjunction with Reinhard Bonnke's Fire Conference which brought in 3000 native African ministers for gospel training. At this same conference Kenneth Copeland Ministries and his partner pastors including Jeff Goss and Jeff Wright also donated a new tent to Reinhard Bonnke Ministries. This new tent had a capacity of 30,000 seated or 60,000 standing but was soon replaced by a sound system capable of being heard by one million people in the open air. So many great memories! We praise God for Jeff & Julie Goss and our long friendship and partnership in the gospel of Jesus Christ!

JAN. 19: Jeff Wright brought the Sunday morning message to Faith Community Church in Great Bend, KS where Jeff received the baptism of the Holy Spirit with the on-going evidence of speaking in other tongues in 1976 & then attended church & Bible College until 1981 when he moved to TX to be closer to the Kenneth Copeland Ministries. On the rear screen in the bottom photo is the 5 min. video intro for NPE that Kenneth Copeland Ministries produced and aired in 2014, which included coverage of the Great Bend Prayer Tour which Jeff organized and led from this church in 2000. Included in this group photo on Jan. 19 were all those there that day who remembered attending church with Jeff in 1976-1981. The current pastor of this church is Sandy Kennedy (second row far right) whom Jeff remembers as one of his best students when he taught church history and other classes at Faith Bible College in 1978.

(TOP) JAN. 24: NPE director Jeff Wright attended the 28th annual Movieguide Awards Gala at the Avalon theater in Hollywood, CA to honor those promoting Godly values in the Entertainment Industry, including top-quality full-length feature films released in 2019 like “Overcomer” by Kendrick Brothers Productions and “The Least of These—the Graham Staines Story”. (BOTTOM) JAN. 26: Jeff Wright led his 25th annual Hollywood Prayer Tour passing the six studios of the Motion Picture Association of America and several other key Hollywood symbols of the Entertainment Industry—almost all of the participants shown here are from 1st Southern Baptist Church and Messianic Fellowship of Buena Park, CA, pastored by Wiley Drake (2nd from right) except for Kenneth Copeland Ministry partner Paul Pham (far left)—Paul started attending NPE annual Hollywood Prayer Tours before 2009 in conjunction with Kenneth Copeland’s West Coast Believers conventions, and holds the record for attending more than anyone else other than Jeff Wright. As he has since 2010 again this year Pastor Wiley provided Jeff Wright with free housing and free use of the above 15 passenger van for the Hollywood Prayer Tour. Pastor Wiley also invited Jeff to bring the 11am message at 1st Southern Baptist Church & Messianic Fellowship of Buena Park, CA where Jeff presented what he has done so far of the autobiography he has been helping Wiley Drake write titled “The Wiley Drake Story—from Bull Rider to Homeless Provider.” Jeff hopes to have this done by the end of 2020, just in time for next year’s Hollywood Prayer Tour!

Above is the cover of the memoir book honoring Dr. Corinthia Boone for her recent 85th birthday and 60th year of gospel ministry—for the last 35 years Dr. Boone has organized and led and often mostly paid for herself a joint DC area church outdoor observance of the National Day of Prayer on the grounds of the U.S. Capitol on the 1st Thursday of May each year. Jeff Wright was asked to sponsor a page in this 85th birthday memoir book for Dr. Boone—see next page. Out of Dr. Boone's efforts to promote unity in the body of Christ has also come the Jericho Prayer Movement where churches of different ethnicities and different denominations come together from different sides of the DC area to pray together at 6am for an hour on the 1st Saturday of each month at 14 strategic locations mostly in DC but recently expanding around the US and the world.

END OF AN ERA IN MINISTRY: At the top of this page is a copy of an envelop that came back in the mail to NPE on Feb. 12, 2020 from the last prisoner to whom we had been monthly mailing our weekly prayer alerts as a result of a feature article on NPE published by Kenneth Copeland Ministries in Nov. 1996 just before the US Presidential Election that year (see next 4 pages). After that KCM article appeared in Nov. 1996 20 prisoners at various US prisons contacted NPE to be included in our free prayer alert mailings. Over the years that number steadily declined as the prisoners gained their freedom, until this last one shown above. At the same time the post box key NPE has been using since 1988 wore out and broke in two, as shown above. We now have a new key! Of course like everyone else more and more of our communication is now done online so the volume of papermail NPE receives has dropped drastically since 1988. Also shown is the Brentwood Post Office in Washington, DC, which is the major post office for Capitol Hill and which NPE has used for our PO BX since 1988. This building was the target of the anthrax letter bomb attack in Oct. 2001, which caused the death of two postal workers in this facility, for whom it is now named as shown on the front sign: Joseph Curseen, Jr. and Thomas Morris, Jr. Two American heroes!

BELIEVER'S VOICE OF

VICTORY

United to Pray for the Nations

BY MELANIE HENRY

AS POLICE HELICOPTERS hovered over the campus of Stanford University in the fall of 1969 beaming their lights on the mob below, Jeff Wright slipped out of his dormitory. Hiding in the shadows, he crouched beside the wall near the Student Union and listened to the sound of shattering glass. Hardly able to believe what he was hearing, he scaled the wall and looked down on the scene before him.

Hundreds of angry demonstrators threw rocks at windows while SWAT teams sprayed clouds of tear gas into the crowd. Fires erupted as anti-war demonstrators burned their draft cards. Police sirens wailed while the chopper engines roared.

Jeff shivered—newsreels from Vietnam flashed through his mind. The war was awful enough, but now this campus, renowned for its Nobel prize-winning professors, looked like a war scene as well.

Has the whole world gone crazy?

Just a few months before, Jeff had been sure that Stanford University would prepare him for the future. Now, he'd begun to wonder if he would even have a future.

One of Stanford's professors had written a book titled, Population Bomb. He predicted that the earth would destroy itself by 1975.

To Jeff Wright, it seemed to be happening.

Everywhere he turned, someone was predicting a collapse of the world as he knew it. Economic collapse... environmental collapse... political collapse—was there no hope for America?

Confused and frightened, he slid

Facing the Troublemaker

from the wall. Staying in the shadows, he walked back to the dorm through shards of broken glass. If there's no hope for the earth, and no hope for America, he thought, how can there be hope for me?

"I was troubled during my years at Stanford," Jeff explains, "but I wasn't alone—the whole world seemed troubled then. After three years, I left the university and went back home to Kansas.

There, I married my wife, Kim, and we got involved in church. In 1976, I received the Baptism in the Holy Spirit.

"I'll never forget the day an older Christian pressed a set of tapes in my hand and suggested I listen to them. The tapes were by Kenneth Copeland. Later, I discovered that our church library had a complete set of Brother Copeland's teachings. I spent the next year and a half listening to them. The more I learned about faith and prayer, the more hope I felt for our future as a nation.

"I attended a Bible School in Kansas. Then in 1981, the Lord led us to move to Fort Worth to be closer to the Copeland's ministry."

In addition to attending all the Copeland's regular meetings, Jeff and Kim also started attending a Bible study led by Vinita Copeland, Kenneth's mother. Week after week, they soaked up her teaching and anointing from that great woman of prayer. Back then, Jeff and Kim had no way of knowing that God was using her to prepare them for their life's work. In fact, they didn't even know what God wanted them to do with their lives.

Jeff was working as a fireman and filling pulpits whenever invitations were offered. For two years, their lives seemed to revolve around the Copeland's ministry and especially Vinita's Bible study.

Then in March 1983, while Jeff was praying, the Lord spoke something unexpected to his heart.

I want you to start a church in Washington, D.C. that will concentrate on praying for the government of this nation.

Suddenly, Jeff's mind raced back to those difficult years at Stanford. He'd been deeply disturbed by the nation's problems back then. And now it seemed that God was calling him to be part of the solution.

"The idea of moving to Washington, D.C. was daunting," Jeff admits. "I thought I'd burned my snow shovel when I moved to Texas. Still, I knew the Lord's voice, and that I would obey Him. Immediately we went to Vinita. She prayed for us, then gave us the name and phone number of some friends of hers in the area."

Three months later, in June of 1983, Jeff and Kim, with their two children, Amy and Sam, moved to Washington, D.C. and started the Victory World Outreach Church in Lanham, Maryland. The first thing they did was broadcast Kenneth Copeland's teachings on intercession. Almost immediately, revival broke out, and people's needs were being met in a miraculous way. Caught up in the joy of it, they never got around to organizing prayer for the nation.

A month later, the Lord spoke again. He was direct and to the point.

When are you going to pray for this government?

About the same time, Jeff was talking to the wife of another pastor in the nation's capital. "If I'm a pastor's wife who lives here, and I'm not praying for this nation," she said, "who is?"

Jeff Wright and others prayed in front of the White House lawn, until the reality of tourists wandering by prompted him to seek God's strategy—Prayer Tours.

Convicted, Jeff called his congregation together.

"We went to the White House lawn to pray," Jeff remembers. "There is a place called the Ellipse near the helicopter pad where we gathered. It was summertime and the weather was nice. We stood in a circle, held hands and prayed for every branch of government.

"Afterward, we prayed there once a week. At first it seemed ideal, but soon we encountered the reality of barking dogs, tourists wandering by and Frisbees zipping past us. Then there were days when we stood praying in drenching rainstorms. By winter, when snow and ice hit the area, I knew there had to be a better way."

In addition to the environmental considerations, most of our members drove into D.C. every day to work. Asking them all to drive back into the city every weekend was creating a real hardship.

Jeff went back to his prayer closet to get God's strategy. There, he heard two words, "prayer tours." In his heart, Jeff saw cars and buses full of praying people driving past the White House, the Lincoln Memorial and Embassy Row.

"I realized," Jeff says, "that Washington, D.C. is filled with visual reminders of how to pray. We set up time for the prayer tours on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock during the Sunday School hour. We enlisted enough people to participate so that everyone took a turn every two to three months."

Jeff divided the prayer tours into three distinct groups. The first group drove past Embassy Row on Massachusetts Avenue. The first embassy they passed belonged to Israel, so the team began by praying for the peace of Jerusalem. Then, as they passed each embassy, they prayed for that nation to be reached for Jesus and for peace so the gospel could spread around the world.

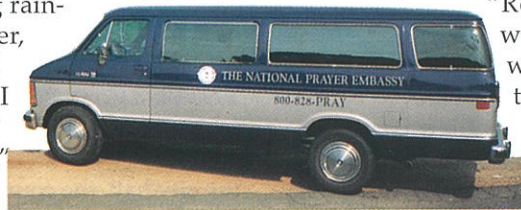

The second group drove past the Pentagon and prayed for the military, especially where they were involved in conflict. That tour also passed the Lincoln Memorial to pray for God's healing of racial unrest, and the Federal Reserve Board which sets interest rates to control the economy. They also drove past the Vietnam Memorial to pray for our veterans, MIAs and POWs.

The third group drove past Capitol Hill, praying for Congress and the Supreme Court. The Capitol Dome, resembling a helmet, reminded them to pray for the helmet of salvation for all our elected officials.

All three groups drove past the White House, praying for the president.

"The president's safety was a major concern to us," Jeff recalls.

"Prayer Tours" drive cars, vans and buses of praying people past the White House, Lincoln Memorial, Embassy Row and other visual reminders to pray for national leaders.

"Ronald Reagan was president when we moved to Washington, D.C. We sensed an urgency to pray that Ronald Reagan complete his term alive. Although he was shot by an assassin, he survived the attack and left office alive. We believe that is a testimony to the power of united prayer.

"In fact, we believe that each of the presidential deaths in office was a failure, not of government, but of the Church. After all, God gave specific instructions to the Church in 1 Timothy 2:1-4. He lists four kinds of prayer: supplication, prayers, intercessions and giving of thanks, to be made for kings and all in authority.

"I realized that those words were penned to a local pastor, like me, to exhort believers to pray."

In 1983, when Jeff's congregation began gathering for prayer at the White House, they discovered that for 20 years prior to 1973, the Christmas display on the Ellipse had included a life-size nativity scene. It had been removed in 1973 due to a court case.

Jeff and his congregation began praying for that decision to be reversed. In December of 1984, after an eleven year absence, the nativity scene was back on the Ellipse.

The prayer ministry expanded further in 1988 when a praying minister named Bob Wilhite spoke to Jeff Wright's congregation. While there, he received a vision for a new embassy in the nation's capitol—the National Prayer Embassy. Under the covering of Jeff's church, he moved to Washington, D.C. and founded the Prayer Embassy.

The mission of the Prayer Embassy is to help Christians pray for nations, leaders and world events. The embassy sends out weekly prayer alerts to believers around the world. Those prayer alerts are being broadcast on radio stations, from pulpits and through church bulletins.

The embassy also sends out prayer handbooks on request and assists in conducting prayer tours for groups visiting the Washington, D.C. area.

In 1992, Bob Wilhite moved back to Arkansas, and today, Jeff Wright is the director of the National Prayer Embassy, as well as pastor of Victory World Outreach Church. Through those two arms of ministry, Jeff has been involved in many significant events in our capital, including, "March For Jesus," "True Love Waits" and "Promise Keepers." He has led prayer tours with buses full of our nation's youth.

What's next for Jeff Wright and his army of intercessors?

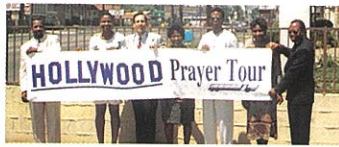

"Hollywood is destroying the moral fabric of this nation," he says. "The Church may influence our young people a few hours a week, but Hollywood influences them for untold hours each week.

We have been praying for churches in that vicinity to begin prayer tours past Fox TV, NBC, Warner Brothers, Disney and all the major studios.

In fact, we arranged prayer tours following the 1996 West Coast Believers' Convention in Anaheim, California.

"Every city has visual symbols—the city hall, the court house, county and state government offices, police stations, jails, schools and abortion clinics. We are praying, and we believe that God is igniting the vision in churches across the nation for prayer tours in every city.

"Furthermore, we fully expect to see prayer returned to school, and the ten commandments to the walls of the classroom."

At KCM's 1996 Anaheim Convention, Jeff Wright was joined by other pray-ers who focused their faith toward the influential force of Hollywood's studios.

Today, the dark, frightening days of the fall of 1969 seem a lifetime away to Jeff Wright. When he thinks back on them, he just shakes his head in wonder. "I wasn't even a committed Christian back then," he says. "So when I saw trouble all I knew to do was sit on the sidelines and watch."

One thing's for sure, Jeff Wright isn't sitting on the sidelines anymore.

He and his band of faithful Christians are facing the troublemaker himself on the front lines of our nation's capital every Sunday. They are doing more than just believing that if Christians humble themselves and pray, God will heal their land. They're doing the one thing against which Satan has no defense.

They are obeying God's command. And clearly, it is making a difference. KCM

VICTORIOUS CHRISTIAN LIVING

God Is Healing Our Land

by Kenneth Copeland

FAITH-FILLED WORDS—THEY change things. They'll move mountains into the sea. They'll turn sickness into health. They'll turn a sinner into a saint. Faith-filled words will also take a sin-ridden nation and turn it into God's own country.

If we believers would back up the prayers we've been praying for this nation with words of faith instead of words of doubt and discouragement, we'd soon begin to see spiritual resurrection.

God promised us that if we, His people, would humble ourselves and pray, seek His face and turn from our wicked ways, He would heal our land. Let me tell you, there are prayer warriors all over this country (I hope you're one of them) who are doing what that promise requires.

But, even so, you don't hear many people saying, "This is great! God is healing the land." You don't hear people speaking out by faith the promise of God. Instead, you hear them saying, "Oh my, oh my, did you hear what those terrorists are doing?" or some other destructive thing they've seen on television.

Listen, we need to stop preaching what the terrorists are doing and start telling what God is doing! God said He is healing this land.

We must start speaking about this country by faith instead of going around spouting bad news all the time. Of course, that will sound odd to most people. Some of them may even think we've slipped a few cogs. But that's nothing new.

Let me tell you something: One handful of believers who are listening to, trusting in, and speaking out the good news of God is more powerful than all the devils on earth. One handful of believers is more powerful than a whole army of unbelieving doomsayers. Their unbelief will not make the faith of God of no effect!

Listen, we need to stop preaching what the terrorists are doing and start telling what God is doing! God said He is healing this land.

That's why over the last 30 years, Gloria and I have learned to turn a deaf ear to the bad news and just start praising and thanking God for His deliverance. Every word of praise we speak releases faith in our hearts.

Get determined with Gloria and me right now. Take a firm stand with us that things are changing in this country. Settle it in your heart as you pray. Speak it out. Call it forth. God is healing the land! KCM
